The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the indelicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispenses with the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients, will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of KNOWN COMPOSITION. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound.

If sick consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held sacredly confidential.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate and regulate stomach, liver and bowels.

ROYAL WEDDING.

Prince Wilhelm, of Sweden, second son of King Gustave, the popular sailor prince who visited America in 1907, was married yesterday afternoon to Grand Duchess Marie Pavlovna, a cousin of the Emperor of Russia and daughter of Grand Duke Paul Alexandrovitch. The ceremony took place at Tsarkoe-Selo, St. Petersburg, and was accompanied by all the pomp and brilliant display of colors characteristic of the most stately court in Europe.

The day was marred by frequent heavy falls of snow, which, however, failed to chill the enthusiasm of the great crowds that gathered around the palace to catch a glimpse of the emperor and other royal personages and the arriving guests. The crowd stood for hours in the bleak and muddy palace square until the conclusion of the ceremony.

In the evening a great state banquet was served at which toasts were drunk to the good understanding between Sweden and Russia recently reached in the Baltic agreement, to which yesterday's wedding—the first in modern times between the ruling houses of two countries—puts the seal.

The beginning of the nuptial ceremonies was announced by the firing of five guns simultaneously at 9 o'clock yesterday morning by the battery at Tsarskoe-Selo and by the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul in St. Petersburg. This was but the beginning of the noisy acclamation, for the thunder of salutes was heard almost uninterruptedly throughout the afternoon and the evening.

The wedding guests who took part in the ceremony assembled at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the great palace at Tsarskoe-Selo. Only Premier Stolypin, the members of the cabinet, the president of the Douma and the president of the council of state, the principal ambassadors to Russia and their wives and a few of the highest dignitaries of the empire found place, in the small blue and gold chapel of the palace, where the orthodox ceremony was performed. The other guests were stationed according to their rank in the various salons and halls through which the bridal procession passed.

The robing of the bride was performed in accordance with court custom in the private apartments of the empress. She was dressed by the empress and the dowager empress, assisted by their maids of honor and their ladies-in-waiting. The bride wore on her head a jeweled diadem, and from her shoulders hung a long trained mantle of strawberry velvet, lined with ermine. In the procession the train of this garment was borne by five court chamberlains.

HOTEL DESTROYED BY FIRE.

At least 12 persons lost their lives in a fire which destroyed the New Aveline Hotel, at Fort Wayne, Ind., at an early hour yesterday morning. The entire interior of the building is a smouldering heap of ruins and how many dead are concealed by the debris can only be conjectured.

The hotel register was consumed by the fire and there is no means of determining who is missing.

The complete destruction of the interior of the hotel makes the work of recovering bodies a difficult task. A confused heap of charred wood, bricks and twisted girders is piled up between the walls to the second story. Piece by piece this must be removed before the roll of the dead can be completed. Some of the bodies taken out are mangled and charred beyond recognition.

The fire was discovered at 3:30 o'clock in the morning in the elevator shaft when the guests were aroused.

The hotel was erected half a century ago and the woodwork was dry as tinder. It burned like matchwood and within a few minutes from the time the fire was discovered the whole interior of the hotel was a mass of flames and the only means of escape left was by the windows.

The fire department rescued many by means of ladders, but some, frenzied by the rush of the flames, leaped from windows to the streets and were killed or seriously injured.

SOCIAL EQUALITY DENOUNCED.

Denunciation of the "social equality" dinner in New York, when colored men and women sat with whites at the same table, and the doctrine of the final amalgamation of the two races was expounded by some of the speakers, was heard from practically every negro pulpit in Richmond yesterday and last night, the colored preachers advising their hearers in every instance that the salvation of the colored race lies not in social equality and the impossible hope of intermarriage between the races, but in honesty of purpose, thrift in business, and morality in living among the negroes themselves.

The preachers were unanimous in their condemnation of what they termed an attempt to adjust the difficulties of the race by impossible means. The southern negro, it was pointed out, knows full well that social equality will will never be tolerated in the south. The negroes were advised that the southern white people are their best friends, ready to stand by them, and help them in all their difficulties if only they will be honest and moral and thirfty, and not allow their heads to be turned by the teachings of enthusiastic but badly informed friends, such as were present in New York on the occasion of the dinner in question. The negroes who were present, it was held, were more the enemies than the friends of their race in the south.

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE AND VIRGINIA ADVERTISER

MONDAY EVENING, MAY 4, 1908

THE bitter fight that has been waged against Senator Bailey in Texas during the past two years was won on Saturday by the Senator who carried his State by a large majority in the primary election for delegates-at-large to the democratic national convention. Senator Bailey was fighting for indorsement and this he secured by a handsome majority. Following the charges and subsequent investigation of the alleged connection of Senator Bailey with the Waters-Pierce Oil Company and other concerns before the State legislature, which resulted in the discharge of the committee of the Senate before a decision was reached, and Senator Bailey being exonerated by the lower house, special interest was lent to Saturday's election in that the result would carry the indorsement or disapproval of the Senator by the voters of the State. In a speech during the investigation Senator Bailey promised unrelenting warfare against his political opponents, and declared that none of his opponents should attend the next national democratic convention.

CONGRESS was never more completely under the domination of President Roosevelt than at this particular time. He has the reactionary leaders who control legislation in the Senate and House completely hypnotized. The big stick is being flourished daily and the president's enemies are dodging here and there in vain efforts to elude its damaging blows. It developed Saturday that the republicans of the House will hold two caucuses instead of one this week. In addition to the conference called for Tuesday night, as announced Saturday, there will be a second on Friday night. At the Tuesday night meeting they will decide whether there shall be any financial legislation by Congress during the present session. Friday night they will consider the advisability of other important legislation, including the amendment of the Sherman anti-trust law and the regulation of injunctions by federal courts. The president, it is said, has the recalcitrants where he wants them and will make them do his bidding.

UNLESS a trick is played upon him by President Roosevelt and his friends, Secretary Taft will surely secure the republican presidential nomination at Chicago next July, and it is equally sure that Mr. Bryan will be the democratic nominee. Of the 726 delegates so far named to the republican national convention 348 are either instructed for Taft, committed to his support by resolutions of indorsement or preference, or have publicly announced in connection with their election their intention to vote for him at Chicago. There will be 980 delegates to the convention and if there is fair play Mr. Taft can easily secure the remaining 142 needed.

THE attempt to secure a federal appropriation of $10,000 to aid the Ladies' Hermitage Association to care for and preserve "The Hermitage," the home and tomb of President Jackson, near Nashville, Tenn., by means of an amendment to the sundry civil bill, was killed in the House Saturday, when the amendment was stricken out on a point of order by Representative Tawney, of Minnesota. Jackson with the leaders of the republican party is now a back number and none of them cares to do him reverence.

THE directors of the United States Steel Corporation have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on preferred and ½ on common, and published a statement showing that the earnings for the first quarter of 1908 were $18,299,005 over expenses. There has been a steady gain since December, but the trust says there must be no reduction in the prices of steel nor reduction in the tariff thereon.

A MERCHANT at Seven Pines, Henrico county, was fined $5 in the magistrate's court last Saturday on each of two charges of selling cigarettes to minors. This is a forgotten law in this city but is one that should be strictly enforced.

From Washington.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.]

Washington, D. C., May 4.

Chief Justice Fuller today stated from the bench of the Supreme Court of the United States that that tribunal had decided on the power to be given a master in taking testimony in the famous suit of Virginia to compel West Virginia to pay about $25,000,000 as her part of the debt of Virginia when West Virginia became a State. This question has been a bone of contention between the lawyers. The court will make public its decision tomorrow. A master will be appointed on May 18, the next day the court meets.

A child labor bill for the District of Colnmbia, the Vreeland currency bill, and the government employes liability bill will made the sum total of legislation that President Roosevelt will get from Congress this year, according to Mr. Watson, of Indiana, republican whip of the House who had an hour's conference with the executive today. Mr. Watson said that an honest effort would be made to secure the passage of an anti-injunction bill and some modification of the Sherman anti-trust law, but he doubted very much if anything would be done on these matters.,, We haven't any idea in the world now when we will adjourn," said Watson, "and from present prospects I wouldn't be surprise if we were in session until the 4th of July."

Chairman Harry New, of the republican national committee, is here to consult with President Roosevelt to make preliminary arrangements for the gathering of the convention. It is desired that the man selected to be temporary chairman of the convention shall be possessed of a voice that can be heard in every corner of the great Coliseum building. Senator Dolliver, of Iowa, who is one of the most vigorous atmosphere disturbers in the party, as well as one of its most eloquent orators, is being favorably considered for the honor of thus launching the campaign of 1908. Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, however, may land the prize. His voice is not so rotund as Mr. Dolliver's but it is quite as penetrating and in the matter of eloquence, he runs a close second to the statesman from Iowa. Moreover, President Roosevelt is said to be desirous of rewarding Mr. Beveridge for the fight he made in the Senate recently, in behalf of the administration's four battleship proposition. Others mentioned for temporary chairman are ex-Secretary of the Treasury Shaw and Senator Lodge. It is expected that the president's wishes as to the selection of both the temporary chairman and the permanent chairman, will be followed by the committee. The names will not be formally announced until after the meeting of the subcommittee which will be held in Chicago, May 15. John A. Stewart, president of the league of republican clubs of New York, contributed to the political literature of the day, by announcing that, as a result of a canvass of the Empire State on the presidential question "there is a practically unanimous decision for the renomination of Theodore Roosevelt, less than 2 per cent. of the replies containing dissents from this proposition."

Chairman Fowler, backed by a few republicans and all the democratic members of the House committee on banking and currency, succeeded today in finally tabling the Vreeland Emergency currency bill. The session was warm but the merits of the bill were not taken up. After a hot debate of more than one hour a motion to table the bill prevailed. At tomorrow night's conference of the republicans it will be settled just when the Vreeland bill shall come up for discussion, as it is understood that a majority of the republicans favor the measure.

Cardinal Logue, the Irish primate, will arrive in Washington today and will call on the president. Later he will witness a meeting of the trustees of the Catholic University.

The president today nominated Frank B. Lumpkin to be postmaster at Danville, Va.

Senator Penrose, who has been seriously ill, has so far recovered that he has sent word that he will arrive in Washington tonight prepared to take up his senatorial duties.

A conference between the House leaders and Chairman Fowler is being held this afternoon at which an agreement is expected to be reached to support a compromise financial measure drawn by republican Floor Leader Payne. Chairman Fowler and his followers have signified their willingness to agree to this plan. Should the compromise be effected, the general conference of House members called for tomorrow night, will be called off.

TO OPPOSE DRAINAGE PLANS.

With the view of protecting the Dismal Swamp from any of the drainage schemes which may be considered by the National Drainage Congress which meets in Washington May 12, the board of trade of Norfolk has decided to join the organization and send representatives to the coming meeting.

Since it has become recognized that the Dismal Swamp is responsible for the moisture of the soil of that section and has made it the finest trucking district in the world the local board of trade, with the other bodies of Tidewater Virginia, has decided to resist any drainage plan which may be advanced.

Examining Tax List.

[Special Dispatch to the Alexandria Gazette.]

Richmond, May 4.—It was admitted at the office of State Auditor Mayre today that Raleigh T. Green, editor of the Culpeper Exponent and a warm supporter of Congressman Carlin, spent some time in that office recently inspecting the poll tax returns from Louisa and Orange counties. It is said that as a result of his investigation he will charge that in the congressional election to fill the late Representative Rixey's seat between fifty and sixty delinquent poll tax men voted in Mr. Gordon's county and that about forty illegally voted in Orange. Mr. Green is said to have discovered that although the qualified vote in Louisa increased 56 per cent. on the eve of the congressional election, the auditor's books show that only two men paid the delinquent tax Mr. Green charges that some of the delinquents had failed to pay their taxes for two years back, while others were delinquent for only one year. He furnished the auditor with the names of every man he suspected, and the records were consulted as to each one of them.

Ex-President Cleveland.

Lakewood, N. J., May 4.—A rumor circulated here today that former President Cleveland was dead was indignantly denied at the Lakewood Hotel where the former executive has been ill for several weeks now, but beyond this no statement as to his condition was forthcoming. Inquirers were referred to Mrs. Cleveland's last statement in which she declared her husband is no worse. The same strict guard over the Cleveland apartments is being maintained and no one is permitted to approach the wing of the closed hotel where the patient is confined. The secrecy maintained is regarded by people here as the most significant feature of the ex-president's sickness. Slowly the belief is growing here that Mr. Cleveland's condition is more serious than is admitted, but no confirmation of this report is obtainable.

Lakewood, N. J., May 4.—Despite the great efforts of members of the family to keep from the public the exact nature of the illness of former President Grover Cleveland, it was learned on the highest authority this afternoon that not only is he a sick man, but that he may not recover.

The Thaw Case.

Poughkeesie, N. Y., May 4.—The utmost confidence that Harry K. Thaw will be liberated by the habeas corpus proceedings begun here today was expressed before the hearing opened here today. Thaw's attorneys are confident, too.

Thaw appeared greatly improved since his last trial. His face, formerly sallow, today was flushed. He is considerably heavier, but showed nervousness. He came into the court room with his usual rapid stride and greeted the lawyers and others who were in attendance on his trials. His eyes had the same old stare that always attracted attention to him.

About twenty women of Poughkeepsie were admitted, but the doors was closely guarded and no one was admitted who did not have a ticket issued by District Attorney.

Thaw is anxious to testify in his own behalf. He said he is willing to take the stand and submit to any kind of a gruelling to prove his sanity. "They can go as far as they like," he said. "I'm ready."

Affairs in Venezuela.

Willemstad, May 4.—President Castro of Venezuela has sent additional troops, according to messages from Caracas, to roundup the laborers who fought their way through the Gordon about plague-stricken Laguayra and drive them back into the city.

The Venezuelan government makes no reply to the laborers assertion that the quarantine inhabitants are not being fed and that they were compelled to escape or starve.

Though Castro will not admit that Butonic plague is raging in the country he is certainly doing his utmost to isolate Laguayra. The quarantine guards have orders to shoot fugitives and are reported to have killed a number.

Scattering cases of the plague are said to exist in other Venezuelan cities and it is feared the recent numerous escapes from Laguayra will greatly spread the disease at once.

Searching For Revolutionists.

Lima, Peru, May 4.—The authorities are still looking vainly for the revolutionaries who have evidently been plotting in Lima and other Peruvian cities. The discovery of several magazines of arms and ammunition seems to leave doubt of the conspiracy's existence, but so cleverly have the plotters covered their tracks that it has been impossible thus far to find them. Though several arrests have been made, it is far from certain that the right men are in custody. While they remain at large the authorities are in constant terror of a surprise. President Pardo is personally directing the investigation.

Japan and China Combining?

St. Petersburg, May 4.—Proof that Japan and China are combining for aggressive anti-Russian action has been submitted to the czar's government by Secretary of War Taft, according to newspapers here. The government, it is asserted, will lay the documents before the council of empire in the hope of hastening the completion of plans for the construction of the Amur railway. Former Premier Witt is opposing in the council the government's proposition to give the railway concessions to Americans, declaring them unable to guarantee a profit to Russia.

Tobacco District Under Martial Law.

Ripley, O., May 4.—Adjutant General Critchfield decided today to place the Burley tobacco district of Ohio under martial law. Adjutant General Critchfield arrived at this decision after a thorough investigation of the situation, accompanied by Sheriff Cahill.

Houses Destroyed by Lightning.

Manila, May 4.—Tents, food, clothing, medical supplies and other reliefs are being rushed today to Antipolo, Noreng province, where 400 houses were destroyed last night in a fire started by lightning. Fully two-thirds of the population of about 3,500 are reported homeless and destitute.

Afghan Retreatings.

Simla, May 4.—Sullen but apparently overawed by the powerful British showing against them, the Amir of Afghanistan's troops are retreating inch by inch from Landi Kotal, before which they encampedafter their repulse, Saturday night in an attempt to seize the blockhouse guarding the Afghan outlet to Khyber pass.

The Asiatics are not routed by means. It is not even certain that they are not attempting to draw the English into the country where their cavalry and cannon will be at a disadvantage and attempt to cut them off.

So apprehensive is General Sir James Willcocks of such an attempt at an ambush that he is doing no more than to keep his vanguard in touch with the natives, slowly pressing them backward, but venturing in no advance until he has made his position absolutely secure.

Shots are exchanged from time to time between the advancing and retreating armies, but nothing in the nature of an engagement or even a lively skirmish can be said to be in progress. As yet there have been few casualties. The British are enormously outnumbered.

Released On Bail.

Easton, Pa., May 4.—Henry D. Smith, and his wife, father and mother of little Irene Smith, who was killed during the recent orgy of "devil-chasers," and Mrs. Robert Bachman, wife of the religious maniac, who choked and beat the child to death, were released from the county jail under bond by Judge Scott today on habeas corpus proceedings. Bond for each was furnished in $3,000. Mrs. Bachman and the Smiths were arrested in connection with the religious sacrifice following the investigation of the little girl's death, and the county prosecutor opposed their release, hoping to keep them in jail until Bachman's trial begins, probably next month.

Bailey Triumphant.

Dallas, Tex., May 4.—Latest returns make sure the victory of United States Senator Bailey in the election of delegates to the national convention by a majority estimated from 40,000 to 50,000. Assurance is given that practically all the delegates in the thirty-two districts, will be personal friends of the senator.

Double Murder.

New York, May 4.—William Sekanski murdered his former sweetheart, Annie Kochons, and Michael Kirasle, her defender, in New York last night. He is not repentant. When he speaks of it he declares that he is glad he committed the crime. Jealously was the cause of the double crime.

St. Petersburg, May 4.—One hundred and twenty persons were drowned yesterday by the capsizing of a ferry boat crossing the river Dnieper in Mohileff province. Thirty of the passengers were saved. The craft was laden with worshippers returning from church.

New York Stock Market.

New York, May 4.—The reaction that was in progress in the last hour on Saturday in a material decline after the opening today with the speculative operations all through the first hour almost entirely by the unfavorable tone of London cables. As the first hour ended an upturn was recovered.

Price movements in the stock market after the first hour were decidedly irregular with a number of leading issues showed extreme heaviness, while other stocks responded to bull manipulation and in some cases enough to make them join the list that have reached new high records for the year.

CONSECRATION OF A BISHOP.

The consecration of Mgr. Denis J. O'Connell, rector of the Catholic University of Washington, as titular bishop of Sebaste was performed in the Cathedral in Baltimore yesterday. Although none was admitted to the cathedral except those holding cards, the historic old building was crowded with ecclesiastics and laymen.

The ceremonies of consecration took place during the grand high mass, which began at 10:30 o'clock, and was preceded by a procession of lay students of the Catholic University, brothers of schools, sanctuary boys, seminarians, members of religious orders, secular clergy, acolytes, the faculty of the Catholic University, vicars general, Roman prelates, right reverend abbots, right reverend bishops, most reverend archbishops, Right Reverend Bishop-elect O'Connell, and the assistant consecrators, Mgr. Falconio, the apostolic delegate, and Cardinal Gibbons.

The cardinal was the celebrant of the mass, during the time of which he occupied his dais at the right of the sanctuary, while opposite him sat the apostolic delegate, Mgr. Falconio, surrounded by members of his household from Washington. The altar was brilliant with lights and beautiful with Easter lilies and other white flowers. Seated inside the altar rail were the members of the faculty of the Catholic University.

The consecration ceremony was performed by Cardinal Gibbons assisted by Archbishops Keane, of Dubuque, and Moeller, of Cincinnati.

STEAMER SINKS AT WHARF.

The River Steamer Trenton Suddenly Sinks at Her Wharf at this Port--One Child Drowns--Thrilling Rescues.

Shortly before nine o'clock yesterday morning an alarm of fire was sounded and a few minutes later the department was making its way toward the river front. Many people followed, supposing a fire was raging in the neighborhood of the strand, but upon arriving in front of the river they discovered that something more serious than a fire had occurred, as nothing of the steamer Trenton could be seen save her smoke-stack, while women and others who had been rescued from the river were being led from the wharf to houses by people who live in the vicinity.

The passengers who had been rescued from the ill-fated steamer were nervous and excited and barely able to give answers profounded them, and wet and shivering from cold they were hurried to nearby houses where they were made as comfortable as possible.

Mrs. Posey, wife of E. Maury Posey, a Brooklyn, N. Y., attorney, received the greater sympathy from those who were endeavoring to comfort the rescued. Mrs. Posey's 18-months old son had been drowned, although the mother had plunged overboard with the little fellow in her arms and attempted to swim ashore. The swirl of the sinking steamer, however, carried the child away and he was carried down by the suction.

The news of the disaster soon spread over the city, and in a few minutes the docks in the neighborhood of the sunken steamer were packed with people. All sorts of rumors were being circulated and exaggerated as they passed from mouth to mouth. In the confusion following the sinking of the steamer it was impossible to ascertain definitely how many persons had perished, although there was every reason to believe that apart from the unfortunate little one all other passengers who were on the steamer had reached the wharf before she sunk, or had been rescued by the captain and crew or by small boats which happened to be nearby when the accident occurred.

The Trenton left Washington about 8 o'clock yesterday morning. As tickets were not collected until after the steamer leaves this port, it is almost impossible to say how many people were aboard. The highest number given is 40; others, however, place the number at 32.

The Trenton reached her Alexandria wharf between King and Prince streets about 8:30 o'clock, when other passengers went aboard. The work of taking on the Alexandria freight was in progress when people aboard the steamer noticed that she was careening to port. In less time than it takes to tell the water commenced to rush in on the port side, causing the steamer to list and to part the lines which were holding her to the wharf, allowing the boat to drift about a dozen or more yards from the wharf.

The greatest excitement followed, and the rush on the part of the passengers to reach the shore was thrilling. When the water reached the engine room a cloud of steam enveloped the boat and added to the horror of the terrified passengers. The banks of steam which were seen by persons some distance away and who did not know the boat had sunk, caused them to sound an alarm of fire.

While the steamer was sinking some of the passengers succeeded in jumping to the wharf, a number leaped overboard and others climbed to the roof of the saloon, from which they were rescued by persons in small boats.

A large percentage of passengers were colored and there were a number of children among them. The purser, W. W. Danser, R. W. Humphries, the keeper of the lighthouse at Maryland Point, who was a passenger on the boat, and who was standing near the end of the wharf when the accident occurred, and Capt. William Davis, the commander of the Trenton worked heroically in rescuing the passengers. Capt. Davis saved the lives of several people and his clothing was as wet as that of the passengers who had been pulled from the water. Mr. Humphries rescued four women, three children, and two men from the water and brought them to the wharf in a row boat.

Mr. Harry Aitcheson also worked assiduously in rescuing passengers.

W. W. Danser, the purser of the boat had a narrow escape from drowning while trying to swim to the wharf with a colored woman, who was floundering in the water. Mr. Danser was on the wharf, and jumped overboard to help save the passengers. The woman caught him in such a way that he could not swim and they both sank. As they came up they were caught and hauled into one of the row boats.

Mrs. Belle Davis, wife of Capt. George Davis, who lives on Prince street, near Union, was one of the first persons to reach the wharf after the accident. As soon as Mrs. Posey and Mrs. Blake Williams had been rescued she conducted them to her home where she provided them with dry clothes while their own were drying, and made them as comfortable as possible. Later Mrs. Posey went to the residence of Mr. F. S. Harper. She with her husband and one of her sons left in the evening on a train for Occoquan, from which point she proceeded to her home in Maryland. Mrs. Davis also conducted two colored women who had been rescued to her home where she also ministered to their needs. Later she gave them money with which to pay their way to Washington where they have relatives. Mrs. Davis entertained three others who had escaped from the sinking boat.

The cause of the accident is as yet a mystery. Divers arrived here today from Washington and the investigation was commenced.

It is said a sudden shifting of a part of the cargo caused the steamer to careen. Some, however, believe the port-hole were open and that water suddenly rushed in while the boat was being swayed by the taking on of freight. Others suppose the boat suddenly sprang a leak.

Hundreds of people gathered on the docks this morning to witness the work of the divers. It was still believed that when they went to work bodies would be found on the steamer.

The body of the little boy has not been recovered. When it shall have been found Coroner S. B. Moore will hold an inquest.

The survivors and those who aided in rescuing passengers as well as numbers who witnessed the accident give thrilling descriptions of the incidents in connection with the sinking of the steamer.

Engineer Hewett was in his berth when the boat began to go beneath the water. He jumped six feet to the wharf and to safety.

Among those aboard the steamer was John E. Taylor, president and general manager of the company.

J. H. Morrison, of Washington, was a passenger, and assisted in the rescue work. He lost a valuable gun.

Mrs. Chapman Price, of King George county, was rescued from the pilot house. She lost her purse containing $60.

Laura Looker, colored, of Prince George county, Md., was sinking for the third time. Her hands were above her head. As they disappeared below the surface one of the rescuers grabbed her fingers and she was hauled ashore. Her two babies were also rescued.

It is said the steamer is not materially damaged. The boat was valued at about $15,000, and is insured.

In reference to the accident Capt. Davis said: "We left Washington with a small cargo of freight and had probably been loading at Alexandria about half an hour. We had not put aboard half of the Alexandria freight; in fact, there was hardly twelve tons in her, and the greater part of that was in sacks. I was standing on the end of the wharf when I saw the boat suddenly list to port. As she did so the strain parted both the fore and aft hawsers. I leaped aboard and did what I could toward getting the passengers ashore. I am sure that it was not over a minute from the time hawsers snapped until she had sunk to the bottom. It is possible that the dead-lights on the port side were open and that the boat listed sufficiently to ship water through them, but I cannot understand how she could have shipped enough to make her sink so rapidly. The Trenton is a staunch little craft, and I never had any fear of her. Her hull is iron and she has never leaked a drop since I have been with her."

John E. Taylor, of Washington, president and general manager of the Potomac Navigation Company, had come down from Washington and was standing on the wharf. He gave all the aid possible. Mr. Taylor declined to discuss the accident.

Samuel E. Lindsey, the Alexandria agent for the company, said he was completely mystified as to the cause of the sinking. Mr. Lindsey said the Trenton was in excellent condition and had in her a crew composed of careful and competent men. He stated that the boat was far from overburdened, and that the freight that had been placed aboard was so distributed that it could hardly have shifted to such an extent as to sink her.

U. S. Steamboat Inspectors C. W. Wright and E. F. White, of the Baltimore district, came here this afternoon and requested the bell diver to make an investigation of the accident for them. The diver reported that he found two port holes open—one on either side. He will make a further examination later.

The diver Charles Warner, later recovered three pocketbooks containing money, which he turned over to the police.

The inspectors will make an investigation and report to General Uhler, chief of the Bureau of Steamboat Inspection.

The Trenton had been in operation on the Potomac little over one year. She was built in Philadelphia in 1894, and has a gross tonnage of eighty-five, with a net of seventy four. Her dimensions are: Length, 92 6; breath, 16.7; depth, 5.2. Its indicated horsepower is twenty.

The Potomac Navigation Company lost a steamer called the Icicle by fire at a lower river landing nearly two years ago. The officers of the Potomac Navigation Company are: J. E. Taylor, president and general manager; D. H. Fowler, treasurer; George H. Bright, Alvin Price, directors, all of Washington.

The Trenton's crew consisted of Capt. W. L. Davis, Alexandria; James Beach, first mate, Alexandria; W. W. Danser, purser, Philadelphia; T. H. OTHER DISASTERS.

There have been comparatively few marine disasters at or near the port of Alexandria. Sometime in the thirties a small steamer running between this city and Maryland exploded her boiler and a number of persons were killed.

During the civil war the New World, a large steamer from New York, was destroyed by fire a short distance north of Fishtown.

In 1865 the boiler of the ferry steamboat James Guy exploded while the boat was lying at her wharf, foot of King street. A colored fireman lost his life by the accident.

The ferry steamer City of Alexandria was destroyed by fire at her slip at this port in the fall of 1894.

FIRE IN A TENEMENT HOUSE.

A fire at an early hour yesterday morning in a four-story brick tenement at 17 Humboldt street, a thickly populated section of Brooklyn, caused the death of six persons and the serious injury of four others. Every member of one family, consisting of a mother and four children, are among the dead. There were many thrilling rescues by police and firemen. A half dozen or more persons who were trapped in the upper stories were saved by jumping into life nets.

The fire started in the cellar of the building, when the people comprising the eight families living in the house were asleep. It had gained much headway before it was discovered. When the firemen came the fire had spread through the entire rear of the house, where the fire escapes were, and the terror-stricken inmates of the upper floors had been driven to the front windows shrieking for help. Ladders and life nets were quickly brought into use, and most of the imperiled persons were thus rescued.

HELIE TO GIVE UP HIS CREED.

A dispatch from Rome says: One of the greatest difficulties in the way of a marriage between Prince Helie de Sagan and Mme. Anna Gould is the fact that the Catholic Church, not recognizing divorce, has refused to annul Mme. Gould's first marriage. The prince is determined to marry Mme. Gould, and to this end he has decided to turn Protestant. This will enable the couple to be united by both a civil and religious marriage ceremony. If the prince remained a Catholic there could be no religious marriage, and, consequently his wife would not be accepted by society.

CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE CITY

[Judge J. B. T. Thornton, presiding.]

Paul Sleman, of the Washington bar, was admitted to practice in this city.

Leonard Brown vs. T. H. Lyles; final decree.

W. W. Simpson vs. C. M. Griffin, a suit for defamation of character; case dismissed.

The case of Goodrich vs. Washington Luna Park Company upon motion to set aside the verdict of the jury of the Circuit Court of Alexandria county, rendered at the February term of that court, was heard before Judge Thornton, by consent. The plaintiff was represented by Messrs. Leo P. Harlow and Charles H. Digges and the defendant by Moore, Barbour and Keith. The motion was made upon certain alleged errors of law shown by record and because of alleged excessiveness of verdict. The court took the matter under advisement.

The court engaged in hearing a motion to dissolve and sit aside an injunction awarded by the Circuit Court of Fairfax county in the chancery suit of E. W. McCormick against Ellerson and Lerch, trustees, preventing the sale under deed of trust of certain real estate in Fairfax county. The complainants are represented by C. V. Ford, of Fairfax county, and the defendants by Eugene B. Taylor, of this city.

The court late this afternoon decided to dismiss the injunction unless within 20 days additional bond for $1,000 is given in the suits or settlement of amounts due are paid.

The case of Hansbrough vs. the Southern Railway Company is set for trial tomorrow. Judge Aiken, of Danville, will sit in this case.

TO RUN THEIR OWN BARS.

Commonwealth's Attorney S. G. Brent says that the section of the Byrd law requiring all persons who obtain liquor licenses personally to supervise their saloons will be rigidly enforced. Heretofore certain parties have obtained licenses and employed other persons to conduct their business. This procedure, Mr. Brent says, will be brought to a close, and in future persons in whose names the licenses are issued will be compelled to conduct the business themselves. Should others be found in charge of the saloons, the licenses will be revoked.

Executing a Death Sentence.

Prince Urussov writes in his "Memoirs of a Russian Governor" of an acquaintance, one Von Rohren, a very kindly man, who liked to tell sometimes of his presence of mind and his police ability as demonstrated on one occasion at his former post. He was once called upon to be present at the execution of a Jewish criminal. The condemned man hung the required number of minutes and was taken down from the gallows, when the physician was supposed to confirm his death. But it appeared that they had forgotten to cut off the Jew's long, thick beard, thanks to which, although the noose had deprived the man of consciousness, it had not killed him. "Imagine yourself in my position," said Rohren. "The doctor told me the Jew would come back to life in five minutes. What was I to do? To hang him a second time I held to be impossible, and yet I had to execute the death sentence." "But what did you do, then?" I asked and received the memorable answer, "I had him buried quickly before he regained consciousness."

Two Clever Answers.

A pretty southern girl recently showed herself a match for the curious minded women in her boarding house who were bent on knowing what her father's business was.

As a matter of fact, he was an undertaker, but the girl was a bit sensitive on this point, so she made up her mind not to gratify their curiosity. When unduly pressed on the point she answered:

"He's a southern planter."

This was quite within the bounds of truth and completely threw the inquisitive one off the track.

The retort of a well known actress to a similar question about the occupation of her father, who was a letter carrier in her old home, was not inferior in finesse to that of the Dixie girl.

It was when she first began playing in London. Some one asking what business her father was engaged in, she sweetly replied that he was "a man of letters."—Pittsburg Leader.

BASKETS.—A good assortment of Lunch and Market Baskets. J. C. MILBURN.

Alexandria Gazette.

MONDAY EVENING, MAY 4, 1908.

Her 'Art Was Right.

Mrs. H. had a warm hearted and industrious but careless servant, who broke so many dishes that her mistress one day said to her: "Really, Ellen, I think I must take the price of the dishes you are breaking out of your wages. Don't you think you would be more careful if I did?"

"Hi might, ma'am," replied Ellen contritely, "but Hi think, ma'am, it'd be better to take it out of my 'ide."

"Out of your hide? Why, what do you mean?"

"Hi, mean, ma'am, that if you broke my 'ead hevery time Hi broke a cup or a saucer Hi'd mind myself better."

One day poor Ellen fell her full length on the kitchen floor with a gallon pan of milk in her hands. Her shrieks of dismay brought Mrs. H. in great haste to the kitchen. There lay Ellen in the pool of milk, making no effort to rise.

"Knock me in the 'ead, ma'am! Knock me in the 'ead!" she wailed.

"Oh, get up, Ellen! Get up and mop up this milk. This accident is more a fault of your heels than your head."

"You speak the truth, ma'am," replied the weeping Ellen. "If my 'eels 'ad been where my 'art is this never would 'ave 'appened, for Hi mean right in my 'art, ma'am, no matter what Hi does with my 'ead and my 'eels."—London Scraps.

Need of Covers While Asleep.

"The reason it is necessary to be well covered while sleeping," said a physician in giving some advice to a patient, "is that when the body lies down it is the intention of nature that it should rest, and the heart especially should be relieved of its regular work temporarily. That organ makes ten strokes a minute less than when the body is in an upright posture. This means 600 strokes in sixty minutes. Therefore in the eight hours that a man usually spends in taking his night's rest the heart is saved nearly 5,000 strokes. As it pumps six ounces of blood with each stroke, it lifts 30,000 ounces less of blood in the night's session than it would during the day when a man is usually in an upright position. Now, the body is dependent for its warmth on the vigor of the circulation, and as the blood flows so much more slowly through the veins when one is lying down the warmth lost in the reduced circulation must be supplied by extra covering."

The Snake and the Umbrella.

"I spent a pleasant hour with a traveler," said the truthful man, "who told a lot of snake stories. I remember the last of them. It was about a man who took a nap in the woods, laying his umbrella on a rock beside him.

"After awhile it began to rain, and the man awoke. He was all wet. He took hold of his umbrella and opened it hurriedly. It seemed rather stiff in going up, and there was a ripping, tearing sound. Then a live blacksnake fell to the ground, split in two from its head to its tail.

"You see, it had swallowed the umbrella all but the handle, and the man did not notice what had happened till, putting the umbrella up, he halved the snake from stem to stern."

Cigar Cutters and Disease.

"No," said the Sixth avenue tobacconist, "I have no cigar cutters in my store. They're too much a menace to the public health. How? Why, every man who buys a cigar cuts the end of it off in a cutter if he sees one on the counter, but that isn't all. He has a habit of putting the end of the cigar in his mouth first, thus wetting it and preventing the dry tobacco leaf from splitting too much. If the man is afflicted with tuberculosis or any other disease, he may transfer germs to the cutter, and the next man who sticks his cigar in there to cut off the end gets them on his cigar, and in this way to his mouth."—New York Press.

Thrifty.

Two Scottish women were arguing which of them was the more thrifty.

First Woman—Dae ye see that purse? Weel, that's my first ane, an' it's as guid as the day I got it. Ye canna come up to that, noo.

Second Woman—Michty me! Whit a poor boast! Ye ken Dugald, ma husband?

"Oh, aye. What aboot him?"

"Weel, he's ma first man, an' noo you've got yer third, so dinna preach thrift to me again."

The Ambitions of Youth.

"Johnny, why don't you be a good boy like your brother Willy?" the mother was sternly admonishing her naughty son. "Willy here may be president some day, while you will have to dig in the sewer."

"But, mother," wailed Willy, "can't I dig in the sewer sometimes too?"—Harper's Weekly.

What He Drew.

"I notice that you nearly always smoke when you are writing," said the caller. "Do you draw your inspiration from your pipe?"

"No," replied the horse reporter, "I draw smoke."—Chicago News.

He Got Plenty.

Hi Tragedy—Whew! Ranter must have found food for thought in the dramatic editor's article this morning. Lowe Comedy—Food? I should say a full meal. He got a roast and all his desserts.—Philadelphia Press.

Some Knowledge Profound.

No[illegible] know. But if you do not know and nobody knows that you do not know, and you know that nobody knows that you don't know, it is very pleasant to know that they don't know that you don't know that they don't know that you don't know. No man knows how much he really knows until he knows how much other people know that he doesn't know. To "know thyself" is really all there is worth knowing, and since no man really knows himself and there is no other knowledge worth knowing and we do not know the only thing worth knowing we really know nothing. But to know that we know nothing is knowledge greater than the knowledge that some people think they have when they really know nothing and think they know something. Therefore it is greater to know nothing and know it than to think we know something when we know nothing. So if you know nothing and you think you do, and I know nothing and don't think I do, I know more than you. It is therefore well that we know that we don't know.—Exchange.

Somewhat Mixed.

Margaret Durham was the latest arrival at Miss Simmons' select boarding school, and, being pretty and well dressed, she was popular.

Would she be an usher at the monthly musicale? Margaret was horribly shy. She never could do it—oh, never! But the chosen five elected her for the sixth, so the evening found her a perfect flutter of white frills and pink bows (this was the pink musicale) awaiting to receive the early comers. Each of the hardened five bore forward an imposing auditor, and Margaret found herself inquiring of a very ancient and elegant old gentleman in a voice scarcely audible, "Sir, shall I show you to a seat?"

"What, what, what?" demanded the elderly party irascibly, holding his hand to his ear.

"Sir," screamed the flustered novice "shall I sew you to a sheet?"

Then five lace handkerchiefs were crammed into five tittering mouths while Miss Margaret bolted from the scene of her discomfiture, and the five were left to do the honors.—Harper's Weekly.

A Breakfast in Siberia.

"I spent two weeks in the hut of a Siberian savage a prisoner to the black frost," said an explorer. "Shall I ever forget those two weeks? No, no! A Siberian breakfast comes to my mind. We took it lying on our stomachs round a kind of pie board, which was our table. The first dish was frozen weeds dipped in seal oil and served with large chunks of fresh blubber. The second dish was raw walrus. The third dish was walrus hide, an inch thick and hairy. You swallowed it whole, for it was too tough to chew. Dinner was breakfast over again plus a hot meat, seal or reindeer, after the hide course. Supper consisted of cold blubber and cold hide served with seal oil. Don't wrinkle your nose and shudder. In that intense cold, the thermometer never above 40 degrees below zero, I liked that greasy food. You should have seen me munching away at great soft yellow balls of fat similar to duck fat."

Charmless Music.

The man had just reached home after a heavy day's work at the office and was resting himself in his easy chair for a few minutes before partaking of tea. Little Jim, his youngest son, had climbed upon the paternal knee and was relating to his father the events of the day. "And, oh, father," said the boy, "won't you show me your fiddle some day?"

"I have no fiddle, my boy," answered the fond parent.

"Oh, yes, you have, papa," returned the boy, "for I heard mamma telling Mrs. Strongwill this afternoon that ever since she married you you had played second fiddle!"

He Was Not a Dumpling.

Some years ago the lord chancellor of England was cross examining a shrewd bucolic witness.

"They sometimes call you a Devonshire dumpling, don't they?" asked the genial advocate.

"I believe they do," replied the witness.

"But you are not a Devonshire dumpling?"

The witness waited till the laughter occasioned by this inquiry subsided, then he slowly drawled out:

"Hey, but if I had been a doompling you lawyers 'ud 'a' gobbled I up afore now!"

She Knew What She Was About.

The Husband—You suggested that we should begin and save money. I consented and gave up my cigars and beer, and now with the money saved you have gone and bought a new hat. The Wife (pleasantly)—That's all right. It was to get the hat that I suggested retrenchment and economy.—New York Press.

Sociology and Speculation.

A sociologist of genius who happened to care about money could probably make a fortune on the Stock Exchange, where knowledge of humanity is the essential thing. Henrik Ibsen was one of the most successful speculators in Europe.—London Outlook.

Always Young.

He—Young girls always want to marry for love, but when they grow older they want to marry a man with money. She—You're wrong. They don't grow older. They merely grow wiser.—St. Joseph Press-News.
